Brrr, it's cold outside! At Cowley County Mental Health & Counseling Center (CCMHCC), staff have made it their goal to help keep Cowley County residents warm this year.

Beginning November 18, 2013 CCMHCC will start collecting donations of clean and gently used coats, gloves, hats and scarves. These items are needed in every size from infant to adult. CCMHCC will continue taking donations until December 5, 2013. Drop boxes are located in the agency lobby at Strother Field and in both Arkansas City and Winfield at the following business locations: Sirloin Stockade and Winfield Rec Center.

"Part of Cowley County Mental Health & Counseling Center's mission is to collaborate with consumers and community partners. This coat drive is an example of how CCMHCC reaches out for community support to provide access to a needed resource," said Jason Hallinan, CCMHCC Community Support Services Director.

The agency urges anyone in need of winter outerwear to drop by their main location at 22214 D Street in Strother Field on December 7th 2013 from 10am-2pm to receive any available items free of charge.
